Who Are You Following?

Today's Gospel reading points to the extreme challenge all stewards face: "Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me." It is easy for us to say that we want to follow Christ, but doing so requires great fortitude. The prophet Jeremiah understands this well. In the first reading, Jeremiah laments at being "duped" by the LORD; he feels like he was tricked into the role of prophet, a job he never wanted. Yet at the end of his rant, even he has to admit that he literally cannot have it any other way. He knows in his heart that he must offer his life to the LORD. Thankfully, the Holy Spirit has given each of us similar fortitude, that we can confidently choose to deny ourselves and take up our crosses, following Jesus wherever he leads us!

“Sometimes we need to get back to the basics when we talk about stewardship. We need to realize that stewardship is not rocket science, but rather is something simple we all can grasp and understand. God will want to know how we took care of others’ needs, and that’s really what the stewardship way of life does. It provides us with the opportunity to care for another one’s needs, just as Jesus has asked us to do.” Msgr. Thomas McGread

Celebrating 100 years of Catholic Education

‘Father, we ask “What does it mean to be led by the Spirit? Are we ready to be led by the Spirit? How is the Holy Spirit leading us today? Do we love and trust enough to have as our only security His guidance?” These are questions which call us to know and understand the past, to act responsibly in the present, to dream and hope for the future, involving opening ourselves to experience conflict, to risk and to trust. Father, open us to the Holy Spirit who today is questioning us, challenging us, moving us. Amen
